SPEECH OF ACCEPTANCE COVERS SALIENT POINTS OF NATION'S PROBLEMS

(By Associated Press)
My countrymen, when one surveys the world about him after the great storm, noting the marks of destruction, and yet rejoicing in the ruggedness of the things which withstood it, if he is an American he breathes the clarified atmosphere with a strange mingling of regret and new hope. We have seen world passion spend its fury, but we contemplate our republic unshaken and hold our civilization secure. Liberty—liberty within the law—and civilization are inseparable and though both were threatened we find them now secure, and there comes to Americans the profound assurance that our representative government is the highest expression and surest guaranty of both.

Standing in this presence, mindful of the solemnity of this occasion, feeling the emotions which no one may know until he assumes the great weight of responsibility for himself, I must utter my belief in the divine inspiration of the founders of this new world republic. Ours is an organic law which has but one ambiguity, and we saw that effaced in a baptism of sacrifice and blood, with union maintained, the nation supreme and its concord inspiring. We have seen the world risk its hopeful gaze on the great truths on which the founders wrought. We have seen evil, human and religious, liberty verified and glorified. In the beginning, the old world scoffed at our experiment, today our foundations of political and social belief stand unshaken, a precious inheritance to ourselves, an inspiring example of freedom and civilization to all mankind. Let us express renewed and strengthened devotion, in grateful reverence for the immortal beginning, and after our consideration in the supreme fulfillment.

Progress Proves Wisdom.
The recorded progress of our republic, materially and spiritually, in itself proves the wisdom of the inherited policy of non-involvement in old world affairs. Confident of our ability to work out our own destiny and jealously guarding our right to do so, we ask no part in directing the destinies of the old world. We do not mean to be entangled. We will accept no responsibility except as our own conscience and judgment in each instance may determine.

Our eyes never will be blinded to a developing menace, our ears never deaf to the call of civilization. We recognize the new order in the world with the closer contacts which progress has wrought. We sense the feeling of the human heart for fellowship, fraternity and co-operation. We crave friendship and harbor no hate. But America, our America, the America built on the foundation laid by the inspired fathers, can be a party to no permanent military alliance. It can enter into no political commitments, nor assume any economic obligations or subject our decisions to any other than our own authority.

I am sure our own people will not misunderstand nor the world will misconstrue. We have thought to improve the paths to closer relationship. We wish to promote understanding. We want to do our part in making offensive warfare so hateful that governments and people who resort to it must prove the righteousness of their cause or stand as outlaws before the bar of civilization.

Association for Counsel.
We are ready to associate our selves with the nations of the world, great and small, for conference, for counsel, to seek the expressed views of world opinion, to recommend a way to approximate disarmament and relieve the crushing burdens of military and naval establishments. We elect to participate in suggesting plans for mediation, conciliation and arbitration, and would gladly join in that increased consciousness of progress, which seeks to clarify and write the laws of international relationship, and establish a world court for the disposition of such justifiable questions as nations are agreed to submit thereto. In expressing aspirations, in seeking practical plans, in translating humanity's new conception of righteousness, justice and in its hatred of war into recommended action we are ready most heartily to unite, but every commitment must be made in the exercise of our national sovereignty.

Since freedom inspired and independence inspired and nationality exalted, a world supergovernment is contrary to everything we cherish and can have no sanction by our people. This is not selfish. It is security. It is not suspicion of others. It is patriotic adherence to the things which made us what we are.

Today, better than ever before, we know the aspirations of humanity kind and share them. We have come to a new realization of our place in the world and a new appraisal of our nation by the world. The unshakableness of these United States is a thing proven, not less than to peace for ourselves and for the world to peace established, not merely for preserved civilization.

APPROPRIATIONS BY CONGRESS $3,806,029,547

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, D. RAILROAD STRIKE IS BLAMED ON POLITICS

(By Associated Press)
MEXICO CITY, March 4.—Evidence accumulating in the railroad strike which is in progress throughout Mexico was largely political in inception. Adding to the unrest here is the discovery that within the past few days revolutionary activity has resulted in the arrest of General Francisco Urquiza, former undersecretary of war and marine, and General Tejeda, who are both in jail in this city.

SIMPLES CEREMONIES MARK INAUGURATION OF OUR NEW PRESIDENT

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4.—Warren G. Harding of Ohio, and Calvin Coolidge of Massachusetts, were inaugurated president and vice-president of the United States today. Harding took the oath at 1:18 p. m., and Coolidge at 12:21 p. m.

Yielding to the last-minute entreaties of his family and physicians, President Wilson took no part in the inaugural ceremonies other than to accompany President-elect Harding from the White House to the capital. Immediately after signing bills in the president's room, Mr. Wilson returned to his motor car and drove to his new home on S street.

Bright weather, with cold, blustering March wind marked the opening of inauguration day. There were some clouds backed in the east in the early morning, but these soon gave way before a driving northwest wind, making it seem certain that the new president, Warren G. Harding, would be able to take the oath of office in the open air on the east portion of the capital as had been planned.

Soon after 11 o'clock President Wilson and President-elect Harding arrived at the capital for the inaugural ceremonies, which were to begin shortly after noon. Accompanied by Senator Knox, Representative Cannon, ranking members of the inaugural committee, and the retiring president, and the new, accompanied by a cavalcade, motorcade down Pennsylvania avenue, while the crowd which stood in the chill sunlight cheered at intervals, but Mr. Wilson made no acknowledgment, and Mr. Harding obviously is in respect to the outgoing president. Both men of the cheering for himself. When President Wilson descended the steps from the porch of the White House, secret service men placed 94 feet in each ascending step.

Just before Mr. Harding went to the east portico to be sworn in, it was learned that he planned an innovation in submitting the names of his cabinet officers to the senate by returning to the senate chamber immediately after delivering his speech and presenting the names of the cabinet officers to the senate personally.

Breaking a precedent which has stood since the days of Washington and Jefferson, President Harding appeared at the executive session of the senate to present the nominations of his cabinet officers. Within less than 10 minutes after he had finished his address of five minutes, the senate had confirmed all of the 10 nominations.

EXPECT SURPLUS OF FARM LABOR
(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 4.—A home and work, no matter what the pay is, is the general tone of scores of letters being received by Secretary of Agriculture Shaw of Ohio, from former farm employees, now out of employment in industrial centers.

"We aren't afraid of hard work and we are not looking for wartime wages," wrote one young man of 23, who sent in an appeal for himself and a friend, 22 years of age.

That there will be a surplus of farm labor this season, and that wages will be nearer to what farmers think they ought to pay, than in years, is the conviction of Shaw.

PACKING HOUSE EMPLOYEES TO FIGHT
(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, March 4.—Declaring that 200,000 packing house employees throughout the country would resist to the last ditch any reduction of wages and a return to the 10-hour working day, a formal call was issued for a national conference of employees at Omaha on March 9 and 10.

DOESN'T EXPECT RETURN OF FLU
(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4.—"Don't worry about the flu" this winter, it is unlikely to return, the public health service says in a bulletin just issued. "Worry about diphtheria," worry enough, anyway, to have you determine by a simple test whether you or your children are immune. If they are not, protect them by the new method of immunization.

The report says 5000 cases of diphtheria were reported in October and more in November.

HOLD CREW FOR BIG TRAIN WRECK
(By Associated Press)
VALPARAISO, Ind., March 4.—Engineer Long and Fireman Block, of the Michigan Central train which struck a New York central train on Sunday with a loss of 27 lives, were ordered by a coroner's jury to be held for trial on a charge of involuntary manslaughter.

SIXTY-SIXTH SESSION CONGRESS ADJOURNS

RETIRE TO ENTER LAW FIRM WITH SEC. COLBY

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4.—Woodrow Wilson leaves the White House today to resume the role of a private citizen, and will again take up the practice of law, a profession in which he has not been active for 40 years. With Hainsbridge Colby, the retiring secretary of state, the retiring president has formed a partnership, and the new firm will maintain offices in New York and Washington.

The second Democratic president since Andrew Jackson to fill two consecutive terms, Mr. Wilson's eight years in the White House carried him through the range of human emotions. He was almost blindly idolized and cordially hated. Profound peace, the most terrible of wars, death of a wife and helpmate, friendship and marriage, and finally lingering illness all came in turn to brighten or darken his days. Eight years of it whitened his hair, racked his frame and impaired his physical vigor, but did not rust his mind.

Characterized by his friends as much a wounded veteran of the world war as if he had been shot in battle, he goes back to private life today regarded by his partisans as a living sacrifice of his ideals.

There might be a volume written of the highly interesting and unspoken chapters of Woodrow Wilson's life. These would make a volume of far more engrossing reading than anything that has ever been written about him. Such a volume might include the "inside" story of the break with Colonel House, his former confidential advisor, it might tell how Mr. Wilson, routing M. Clemenceau, the French premier, from bed at 2 o'clock one morning, practically charged the French delegation with tampering with the records of the peace conference proceedings.

It might tell how Mr. Wilson made up his mind to "fire" some other cabinet officers soon after the resignation of Secretary Lansing, but desisted because, he said, it would only add to the popular impression that he "couldn't get along with anybody."

It might also tell what Mr. Wilson "said with a smile" to Lloyd George concerning the relative strengths of the British and American navies, and it might disclose that Mr. Wilson went to the peace conference prepared to withdraw, as he threatened to do, in a mist.

All these things, however, if they do become public, probably will do so by the pen of the historian after Woodrow Wilson has been assigned to his proper niche in the wall of history. While the principal actors in that series of dramatic lives, all these things are likely to remain behind the scenes. Mr. Wilson's retirement to private life is not likely to release them for public consumption.

What part he may take in public life in the future, living as he will almost under the shadow of the dome of the capital, is causing speculation.

FIRST SENATOR TO BE PRESIDENT

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4.—Warren G. Harding, the first senator to be elected president of the United States, today was elected to the White House.

Rest on Popular Will.
The success of our popular government rests wholly upon the correct interpretation of the deliberate, intelligent, dependable popular will of America. In deliberate questioning of a suggested change of national policy where internationalism was to supersede nationalism, we turned to a referendum to the American people. There was simple discussion and there is a public mandate in manifest understanding.

America is ready to encourage, eager to initiate, anxious to participate in any seemingly program likely to lessen the probability of war and promote that brotherhood of mankind which must be the highest conception of human relationship. Because we cherish ideals of justice and peace, because we appreciate international unity and helpful relationship no less highly than any people of the world, we aspire to a high place in the moral leadership of civilization and we hold a main, sustained America, the proven republic, the unshaken temple of representative democracy, to be not only an inspiration and example, but the highest agency of strengthening good will and promoting accord on both continents.

Mankind needs a world wide education of understanding. It is needed among individuals among peoples, among governments, and it will inaugurate an era of good feeling to mark the birth of a new order. In such understanding men will strive conscientiously for the nation of their better relationships and nations with promote the conditions so essential to peace.

Trade Ties Bind Closely.
We must understand that ties of trade bind nations in closest intimacy and none may move against it as he gives. We have no strength, we have no security, we have no source of our genius notably on our own continent, save a galaxy of republics, reflect the glory of new world democracy, but in the new order of finance and trade we mean to promote enlarged activities and seek expanded a silence.

Perhaps we can make the more helpful contribution by example than prove a republic's capacity to emerge from the wreckage of war. While the world's embittered travail did not leave us devastated lands nor desolated cities, left us, as a nation, wound, no breast with hate, it did involve us in the deliverance of slavery, in expanded, extreme, and diffuse, in unbalanced industry, unspeakable waste and distorted relationship. While it shattered our ties of commerce, it also revealed the heart of America as united and fearless, and leading in confidence and reason.

And it all we have revealed the cause of all civilization to the satisfaction and the righteousness of representative democracy, where our warfare, never has sought territorial acquisition through force, never has sought to establish a world empire for preserved civilization.

WOULD ESTABLISH A GERMAN SOVIET

(By Associated Press)
BERLIN, Germany, March 4.—The German communist party has made the ultimatum delivered by the allies to the German delegation in London the occasion for a revolutionary proclamation in which they demand the government and to overthrow the government and to erect a soviet state and effect a political and economical alliance with Russia.

It is a speculation, so far as the records show, no other president has remained in Washington after going out of office. Mr. Wilson first intended to live in Baltimore. He and the present Mr. Wilson settled it by playing a game the president intended during the afternoon on the steamer George Washington on one of the trips to and from the peace conference. It was a game of percentages with certain scores allotted to the various advantages or disadvantages of life of which both were most fond. Baltimore as the game worked out, had the highest total. But breakfast and continued illness intervened and it was decided to remain in Washington, where almost all of Mrs. Wilson's family reside.
